

BROOK & BULL

2021 COME HELL OR HIGH WATER

AVA

Columbia Valley

Blend:

*42% Grenache, 25%
Mourvèdre, 23%
Counoise, 10% Cab Sauv*

Alcohol:

15.1%

pH:

3.84 pH

Oak

95% neutral, 5% new French

Aging:

18 months

Total Production

456 cases

Philosophy

This wine is for the commitment-phobe who is new to adventure. The Cabernet in this blend makes it recognizable as a "red wine" but the Mourvèdre and Grenache take you on a little wild ride. It's approachable enough to get people going on something they might not normally try. This blend really can't be found anywhere else and is a testament to why we keep our winery small—so we can continue to make untraditional blends year after year.

The Art & Wine

Michael Kenna's mysterious photographs, often made at dawn or in the dark hours of night, concentrate primarily on the interaction between the natural landscape and human-made structures. Kenna is both a diurnal and nocturnal photographer, fascinated by light when it is most pliant. With long time-exposures, which might last throughout the night, his photographs often record details that the human eye is not able to perceive.

This photograph is titled "Morning Clouds" and was taken in Monument Valley, Utah in 2005

Ashley Trout, Owner & Winemaker